Happy Earth's Day!

Sustainability and environmentalism is much more than preserving the beauty of nature. It's about fighting for resource equity, clean water, and unpolluted air—all of which impact indigenous communities and communities of color the most. The danger of contemporary efforts that encourage consumers to buy sustainably is that companies use tactics like Greenwashing: conveying a false impression or misleading information to buyers by using buzz words such as sustainable, environmentally friendly, eco friendly, etc... In this way, we are all victims of a system that does not have the right interest at heart. Our communities need to be front and center in conversations regarding environmental impact. Students have great potential in becoming the leaders and litigators of tomorrow. As such, we need to create spaces to advocate for others and educate ourselves on both sustainable practices in our own lives and how to avoid greenwashing our activism.

This is why it was important for me to ensure that California community college students have a space to elevate issues in environmentalism to legislators, so I began the process to activate the Sustainability Caucus. Caucuses are excellent spaces to gauge campus issues at a wider scope and build a community—of community college students!

Region II API Press Release

On the behalf of our entire region,

Region II, a subsidiary of the Student Senate for California Community Colleges (SSCCC), stands in solidarity with the API (Asian Pacific Islander) community during this time.

With both our entire executive board and students amongst the region identifying themselves as being a part of this community, it is heartbreakingly frustrating to see the hateful actions across our neighborhoods and amongst the nation. While we cannot speak on the behalf of all of you as to how you feel at this very moment, we know without words having been spoken directly. The entirety of the region and Region II executive board is experiencing every single feeling that many of you are feeling at this moment, especially as we are the only regional executive board within the organization that is FULLY AAPI. Amongst ourselves from our own experiences, we are seeing how this is directly impacting our communities. It is a crucial time for our student leaders to speak up and take action. As a region, we will NOT and never stand for any acts of bigotry, hate, racism, and sexism. As your elected officials, we have made a commitment and promise to each and every student within our regional community to represent each and every one of them. This is one of those things where we, as one united front, need to stand together and voice that there are evident wrongs where we live in addition to holding each other accountable during this time. In that, this includes us taking immediate action- it includes having these hard discussions, holding space for one another, addressing the issues or problems that the API community is facing, implementing our DEI (Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion) compact resolution amongst all thirteen of our colleges within our region, and taking the time to reflect in our own education in response to what is happening at this time.

We will continue, always and forever, to stand by our students during the darkest times of the year while uplifting them with support to do more than just the the aforementioned actions listed above. We stand with and for the API community today, tomorrow, and everyday.
